Inter-Club Competition So Close!

Saturday September 19th, the Ballarat Camera Club and YMCA Camera Club met together for the annual Inter-Club Competition. Sixty photos were submitted and it was encouraging to see so many participating.

Andrew Thomas was the judge and all considered his comments and judging to be helpful and fair. The photos submitted were of a high quality and covered a wide range of topics and styles. Thanks must go to the Lal Lal Camera Club who were generous in lending us their stands for displaying the mounted photos showing the works off to their best advantage.

LtoR: Andrew Thomas (Judge) Peter Cocks (BCC President) Trevor Madin (BCC Vice President)

There were four sections in the competition: Small Print Mining, Small Print Open, Large Print Open and EDPI Open.

As the scores were given for each photo, people were quietly trying to keep score to see which club would eventually be the winner. Finally the result was announced: Ballarat Camera Club had won but only by 15 points.

Not only did BCC have the winning score, but we also had our members win three of the four sections.

Congratulations to Jill Wharton for winning Small Print Mining, and Large Print Open. Chris Crossley won the EDPI Open and Anne Earnshaw from YMCA won the Small Print Open.

Following the competition, Andrew Thomas gave a short talk on his latest interest which is photographing from his drone. He showed many of the spectacular views he is now able to take. He told some funny anecdotes of his experiences whilst undertaking this photography. Thank you Andrew for an excellent job. The evening concluded with a delicious supper which the Ballarat Camera Club supplied. Thanks to all who submitted their photos. Thank you to all who helped to organise the many tasks that make such an evening a memorable experience. It was much appreciated.

OUTING TO PHOTOGRAPH BUILDING

You will all have received the email postponing the outing to photograph the new building at 900 Humphray Street South. To date, the builders have not quite finished the work but the manager will notify the club when they feel the building is ready for photographing. At this stage we are hoping that Sunday 25th October will be the day for us to visit the building site but this is subject to confirmation. Keep an eye out for the email to arrive on your computer.

New! New! New! New! New! New! New! New! New!

Following discussion at the last Committee Meeting, it was felt that 'Digital Night' should be renamed in order to give a better description of the activities of the interest group. The group meets on the first Monday night of each month. It is very informal, friendly and practical, a night where all issues around photography are discussed and tried out in a very non-threatening environment. It was agreed that the name would be adopted. The next meeting for this group will be held at the Bibby's house, 9 Handford Court, Invermay at 7.30pm.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to two of our club members who had their photos displayed in Ballarat recently. Chris Crossly had some of his work presented in the Foto Bienalle 2015 at the Ballarat Base Hospital. It was reported that those who saw the photos were quite moved by his work. The latest 'My Ballarat' included some photos taken by Carol Hall. Well done to both these members.
